

17 Reasons You Aren't Getting to It

From Jones Loflin-The Speaker With TWO Last Names

Here are some of the most common reasons people (including me) give for not focusing on their It, or Important Thing. You can check the box next to the ones you use most often. Then get a copy of my book, Getting to It, at my store or Amazon. Now you can begin the journey of removing these excuses from your memory and accomplishing more of what really is most important to you.

- I have too much I need to do before I work on It
- I don't have time right now
- My boss or coworkers wouldn't support me
- My spouse, partner, friends, or family won't support me
- I don't have the skills
- I'll have more time later
- I'm too tired
- I might fail
- People will think I'm weird or different
- People like me don't do things like that
- It's a silly notion
- I'd have to change my _____. (insert: schedule, routine, job)
- I'm too _____. (insert: young, old, poor, uneducated, lazy, indecisive)
- I couldn't handle the uncertainty
- No one else is doing it
- I just can't decide what the best direction is for me?
- People are telling me it's a crazy idea

For more information about Getting to It, go to:
www.jonesloflin.com/gettingtoit